Attorneys to Study Report Before Hearings Begin, Chairman Says

VIEWS ON THE REPORT

Nonpartisan Calls It Failure; Independents Say It Shows Need of Probe

Plans for the investigation of the state industries under the report of Bishop, Brissman and company, were discussed at a meeting of the committee of nine in the courthouse this morning.

"We will begin the hearings as soon as the attorneys have had an opportunity to study and thoroughly understand the voluminous report," said Chairman Granger. An accounting report is not easily understandable by a layman, and we have no disposition to act hastily.

Peoples Industries.

In outlining the committee plan at the conference today Mr. Granger said: "You gentlemen were selected by this committee because of the fact that you had not been recommended to us as being men of impartial minds and unprejudiced, up to this time having taken no active part in the factional strife that has been so prevalent in North Dakota for the last few years." The idea in the minds of all members of this committee, realizing the importance of the work before us—the one and sole idea is that we are here representing the house of representatives of the state of North Dakota, not representing any one faction or set of men, but representing all of the people. The industries that have been examined and the industries upon which this audit report is based, which we are called upon to decipher, are the industries of the people of North Dakota.

We, as the members of the committee to make this investigation and report, realize and want you to know that we are sitting here as an unprejudiced, unbiased committee. We have no desire to prosecute, no desire to whitewash; we only desire to get an unbiased and truthful report. Our report will be exactly what the audit shows.

Cautious Fairness.

"In conducting this examination, gentlemen, we want you to hear in mind these facts as stated: that there is no inclination on the part of any member of the committee to have any factional feeling enter. This is not a prosecuting committee. It is not a defense. You have been engaged for the purpose of conducting the investigation. You have been engaged to analyze the report of the auditors, and the committee is willing that you have such support and held as will enable you to do that work in a fair, complete and proper manner."

Mr. Murphy Replies.

English Premier Threatens That He Will Not Return Again

Paris, Jan. 26.—Premier Lloyd George has taken exception to articles published in a Paris paper criticising his attitude on several questions in connection with the matters before the league of nations.

He has made his complaint officially to the French government. "Since I am treated this way, I tell you I will never come to Paris again."

Government officials have appealed to the newspaper to use more moderation in writing of work of the supreme council.

GILBERT WILL

NEXT MONTH

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 26.—The United States supreme court mandate affirming the conviction of Joseph Gilbert, former Nonpartisan league organizer, for violation of the Minnesota sedition act, was filed in the district court here today.

It is understood that through an arrangement with authorities Gilbert will give himself up February 5 to start serving a one-year sentence in the county jail.

Gilbert, who is out on bail, was indicted with two other Nonpartisan organizers by the Goodhue county grand jury on a charge of seditious utterances.

MOVE IS MADE TOWARD PAYING AUDIT WORKERS

House Advances Bill Providing for Appropriation of $12,000

DRY BILL MOVES UP

The house apparently is ready to appropriate $12,000 to pay the expenses of the audit of state industries made by Bishop, Brissman and company. The bill providing such an appropriation was brought before the house yesterday afternoon on a majority and minority report of the appropriations committee, and the house voted down a motion to substitute the minority report for indefinite postponement for the majority report. Because of amendments the bill went into general orders, for further action.

The house was to have several important bills before it today, as the result of a meeting in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon. Among them is the prohibition enforcement act, designed to bring the state prohibition laws in harmony with the Volstead act. The house committee of the whole strengthened the act by including the carrying of firearms by whiskey runners in the section permitting six months to five years imprisonment for carrying whiskey in a stolen automobile.

On this amendment offered by Representative Miller, of Bottineau, who spoke of two murders in the border country by whiskey runners, both Speaker Twitchell, sitting as a member, and Representative Del Patterson, Nonpartisan floor leader, made a second motion.

The house passed a bill designed to protect the American Legion emblem by a vote of 103 to 0, with ten absent. The house was to vote today the bill making Armistice Day a legal holiday.

The house passed bill No. 27, providing for the compulsory teaching of thrift in the public schools, consisting of two 15 minute lessons each week, 69 to 39, with 4 absent and one not voting. The bill, offered by Rep. Kitchen, would provide relief for five counties where salaries are below the minimum.

The following bills were introduced in the house:

House bill No. 46—Martin and Diergo—Providing any release or waiver contained in promissory note or chattel mortgage shall be void. Judiciary.

H. B. No. 47—Lazier and Durkee—Providing closed season on deer till 1923 after which female deer may not be killed but male deer may be hunted between Nov. 10 and Nov. 20. Game and Fish.

H. B. No. 48—Bauer—Requiring butchers to keep record and make report to Commissioner of Agriculture on branded cattle killed. Agriculture.

Attorney General Declares New York Attorney Acted as Adviser to Embassy

CHARGES ARE DENIED

Comes as Retort to Criticisms on Policy of Custodian of Alien Property

Washington, Jan. 26.—Attorney General Palmer last night charged Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, with acting "in the German interest" and with "simply serving his old clients" in his recent criticism of Mr. Palmer's conduct of the offices of alien property custodian and attorney general. The attorney general presented his charges in a formal statement with quotations taken from a report by Captain Roy-Ba, former naval attache of the German embassy here.

The report of Capt. Roy-Ba as made public by Mr. Palmer referred to Untermyer, "the unpaid judicial legal and political adviser of the German embassy."

"The charges regarding my alleged activities before the war have been publicly exploded time and time again. I insisted on appearing before the Overman committee and disproving them at that time."

I knew members of the German embassy when we were at peace with Germany as did many men in public and private life.

"But I thought the war was over and pray what on earth has this job of lies got to do with my categorical charge against this recent and incompetent public officer who now adds to his offenses the still more heinous one of using the archives of his office to attack men who have the courage to attack his narrow administration."

DENIES CONNECTION

New York, Jan. 26.—Denying that he ever acted as counsel for the German embassy and maintaining he had never had any business, social or professional relations with Capt. Roy-Ba, Samuel Untermyer issued a statement relative to Attorney General Palmer's charges. It follows in part:

"I have just been shown Mr. Palmer's oft-repeated statement concerning my alleged activities before our country ended the war."

SENATE WOULD ALSO PROBE IN AUDIT REPORT

Senator Liedersbach's Committee, Like House, Plans to Call Witnesses

MANY PETITIONS FILED

The senate may also have an investigation. Senator Liedersbach, chairman of the committee named to confer with the state board of audit on the report on state industries, said that his committee would, like the house, hire attorneys, call witnesses and investigate the report. Other members of his committee are Senator Church, Nonpartisan, and Senator Ployhar, Independent.

The senate received many petitions yesterday afternoon. Among them was a petition from the county officers of Pierce county asking for an increase in county officers' salaries, and similar petitions from many other counties. The town council of Monango, Dickey county, asked that legislation regulating use of arctic wells be passed.

The congregation of the Methodist Episcopal church at Cooperstown asks that the prohibition laws be brought in harmony with the Volstead act. Senator Van Camp introduced Senate bill No. 29 providing for an appropriation of $35,000 to aid in constructing a bridge across the Red river at Pembina.

Washington, Jan. 26.—In justification of the use of German aeroplanes in aerial mail service, Postmaster General Burleson today sent a report to the house to the effect that the German planes were operated 30 per cent cheaper than the American ones.

He admitted, however, that two of the eight German airplanes purchased had been destroyed.

GERMANY OWES

Washington, Jan. 26.—Germany now owes the United States $228,000,000 for the maintenance of American troops in German territory since the armistice and according to the provisions of the treaty of peace, according to a statement made by Senator McLaughlin in congress today and placed in the congressional record.

Russian Minister Says Peasants Rebelled Against Lening Order

MANY ARE NOW STARVING

Rev. Mr. Frey Scores Present Government of the Country

Russia was as nearly ideal as any country could be, while it was under control of the Kerensky regime. Before there was little freedom. Since there has been none.

Thus did Rev. John Alexander Frey of Riga, Latvia, Russia, minister, author and statesman, epitomize the three regimes that have recently had control of the European country.

Rev. Mr. Frey said that he didn't believe the cars will ever come back but that under the Bolshevik control the people were not working, property was being confiscated and many were starving.

Lening Enters.

He was in Petersburg when Lening first came to that city from Switzerland, where he had been studying the communist ideas.

"Lening never gives long speeches. He said, 'I'll give you peace, and I'll give you bread.'"

"The people said this is just what we need and he is the man we want for our leader."

Didn't Get It

Rev. Mr. Frey said that Lening has not given them what they wanted and that he could not.

Meaning that all property had been stolen, Lening told them to "steal what is stolen," and now everything is being stolen, gold, silver, jewels and everything that is not secreted.

People Starve.

He declares that the Communists went out to the farmers and told them that the farms and stock and everything belonged to the government and that the government would take everything that was produced and give them in return everything they needed. The peasants rebelled at this and would not work and therefore the people in towns starved and times became very hard.

Lening, he said, then tried to buy grain and stock from the farmers with paper money he had printed, but the peasants refused to accept this and about the only way which supplies can be obtained now is through the exchange of jewels, clothing and other articles.

Sent to Prison.

Rev. Mr. Frey said he had been sent to prison at Riga, because the powers that be in Russia had no use for preachers and charged that they were making the people stupid by their sermons.

He will speak again Thursday night at the German Baptist church.

N. P. PROGRAM

McAuliffe of Kansas, Asks State Legislature for Remedial Laws

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 26.—Maurice McAuliffe, president of the Kansas Farmers Union, has asked the Kansas legislature, in session here, to enact remedial laws to relieve the present economic distress.

He declares that relief is not in political management of industries but in the co-operative program which is supported by farm organizations like the Farmers Union.

The co-operative organizations managed by the Union in Kansas, he said, now numbered nearly seven hundred and were doing an annual business of $200,000,000.

There are many members of the Farmers Union in the Kansas legislature.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Wheat underwent a material setback today in price owing largely to assertions that no grain would be exported from Argentina for some time.

URGES LOAN

Early Suggests Foreign Financing to Aid the Farmers

IS BIG PROBLEM NOW

Agricultural Products Have Declined Sixty Percent, Says Banker

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 26.—The problem of financing the farmer is the most important matter before the people of the state at this time, declared J. J. Early of Valley City, a member of the executive council of the state bankers association, today at the first day's session of the North Dakota Implement Dealers association.

Big Problem.

The convention will continue through Friday.

"The work of financing the farmer," he said, "is especially important now because within a few short months the selling price of agricultural products produced at the highest cost ever has declined more than 60 per cent."

Urges Loan.

Mr. Early contributed this to the demoralized condition of the European market. To remedy this condition he urged that investors, including farmers, contribute to long-time loans to Europe.

Legion Bonus Bill Is Drawn For Assembly.

A new bonus bill, prepared by the legislative committee of the American Legion, is to come before the legislature for consideration. Chief features in the new bill are:

Raises mill levy from three-fourths mill to mill and quarter (undecided).

Straight $25 a month bonus provided, removing all restrictions.

If soldier were killed, orphan child, widow, shall be paid bonus or mother and father is reasonably in need of it.

Adjutant general, with consent of Industrial commission, may give priority on claims.

Compensation provided shall be used only in state of North Dakota, with exceptions.

Makes it duty of adjutant general and Industrial commission to cooperate with United States government and endeavor to secure further and additional aid and assistance for returned service men.

The Legion legislative committee believes that provisions ought to be made for a levy large enough so that the bonus could be paid off in the next three or four years. They also believe that the restrictions now placed upon the bonus ought to be removed.

A concurrent resolution memorializing congress to enact a national bonus bill was to be presented in both the state senate and house this afternoon.

CHARGES AGAINST
SCHWAB FAIL

Washington, Jan. 26.—Charges that Charles M. Schwab had received payment from the government for expenses while serving as director-general of the Emergency Relief Corporation were not proved. The Walsh investigating committee said today in an authorized statement.

The opinion of the committee was expressed by Representative Steele, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, who said it was based on testimony and documentary evidence while he individually felt a great injustice had been done Mr. Schwab.

CRITICISE METHODS USED BY SEVERAL INDUSTRIES BUT DON'T SEEK TO FIX RESPONSIBILITY

Real Condition of Affairs to Be Developed by House and Senate Investigations. Attorneys Hired to Brief Audit and to Summon Witnesses—Operations of Bank of North Dakota Are Merely Outlined—Liabilities of Closed Banks Listed.

The audit report of Bishop, Brissman and company, now in the hands of the state board of auditors, senate and house, opens the way for an exhaustive examination into the conduct of state industries.

The report is so regarded by independent members of the house committee of nine, after an examination of it. The report contains a mass of figures regarding the examination of the Bank of North Dakota, with but little summary and conclusions, and the verification of the amount of loans, the value of securities and similar banking practices will be subjects for the investigating committee.

How Independents View It

Independent members of the house committee believe the audit reveals a situation that calls for exhaustive examination. Bishop, Brissman and company makes some conclusions regarding the law governing the bank operation, and urges changes in the law, and the committee is expected to form conclusions on the matter of future legislation.

Nonpartisans' Attitude

Nonpartisans, after an examination of the report last night by state officials, appeared to be of the opinion that the audit had not revealed any such situation as had been charged.

The house committee announced it had employed attorneys John E. Sullivan of Mandan, and Francis Murphy of Minot, to aid in its investigation, and had engaged C. C. Wattam and Chrissie Budge as reporters to make a transcript of the evidence. Accountants also will be employed.

To Use Attorney General

Senator Liedersbach, head of the senate committee, wants the attorney-general's office to furnish an attorney for his committee.

The report by industries:

BANK OF NORTH DAKOTA

The examination by accountants, as of date of Dec. 3, shows $2,407,645.21 loans to banks, of which $1,147,007.35 was paid due on that date. Of $105,722.00 loaned to elevators, individuals, packing companies, etc., $99,122.00 was paid due.

Loans to Industries

Loans to state industries total $882,716.72, divided as follows: Mill and Elevator association, $650,000; Home Builders, $225,000; Industrial Commission, $7,716.72.

Two hundred and eighty-five banks failed to reply to Bishop, Brissman and company's request for verification of their balances. Of those that replied discrepancies were shown in the cases of 18.

Liabilities of Banks

Liabilities of twenty-three closed banks with the Bank of North Dakota, at time of examination totaled $680,711.89 and the liabilities of banks closed since that time, as of Dec. 3, totaled $237,076.99, making a total amount of money tied up in closed banks, of $917,788.88.

It will be urged by critics of the bank that red deposits in state banks show favoritism, as has been charged. The largest red deposits apparently are held by the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo, which has figured prominently in allegations regarding the Bank of North Dakota. The report showed red deposits of $228,974.71 and loans of $215,152.71, a total of $444,127.42. Names of banks generally in which red deposits are made are withheld from publication.

Redeposits Listed

The list of red deposits of $20,000 or over, which independents will claim bears out the charge of favoritism, includes amounts in banks, taken at random, as follows: $59,242.82; $21,094.86; $124,045.38; $63,459.20; $60,007.45; $24,152.04; $57,301.17; $35,202.75; $40,810.23; $21,333.99; $103,732.74; $51,467.74.

Farm loans and special deposits incomplete are shown outstanding in the amount of $307,300.

Amortization Plan

Under the amortization plan of repayment of farm loans, which contemplates repayment in 30 years, there would be at the end of that time $263.60 out of each $1,000 loan still unpaid, due to a faulty amortization table, it is said.

Of first payments on farm loans due in December, amounting to $43,074, a total of $18,533 had not been paid. This may be the cause of the investigation of the security of hundreds of thousands of dollars of loans.

The $1,000,000, which the bank borrowed from a Chicago bond house, putting up $1,200,000 of state bonds as collateral, becomes due March 5, 1921.

Pike's Bill

Sometime ago publicity was given to Auditor Kositzky's refusal to pay a bill of $7,716.72 presented by the Bank of North Dakota for an amount due Fred Pike, attorney, of St. Paul, who appeared in the "42 taxpayers case." The audit report states that accounts show there is an overdraft of $100 on his account, and adds that it is not properly an overdraft as it represents a balance on an advance of $7,716.72 for legal services of which $7,716.72 was paid by authorization of the Industrial Commission, as a loan to the commission.

HOME BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

The financial statement of the Home Builders association shows disbursements of $376,699.08, and an overdraft of $10,752.62 with the Bank of North Dakota.

Expenditures were made from these funds: $81,752.62 brought forward from the balance of the home builders association (Continued on Page 3.)

FAVORS PLAN OF FRUIT GROWERS FOR WHEAT MEN

Co-operative Selling of Wheat
Approved by Spillman

CITES RESULTS ATTAINED

Has Proved Success, He Says, in State of Washington

What has become known as the California co-operative marketing plan was praised by W. J. Spillman, former chief of the United States bureau of markets, and at present on the editorial staff of the Farm Journal, Philadelphia, in his address last night at the Auditorium, under the auspices of the Farmers Institute.

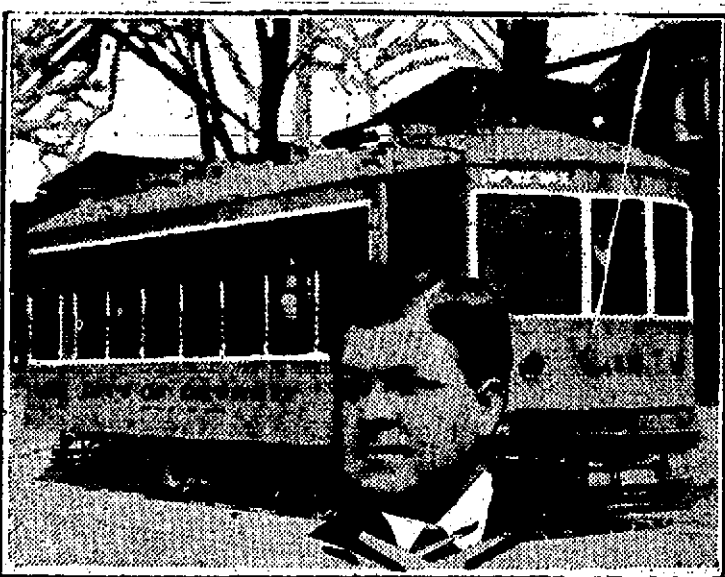

Mr. Spillman reviewed the history of the development of agriculture and manufacturing from the former hand days to present machinery era and held this responsible for a surplus of wheat, which was being sold at the extension industries and thus drawing many workers from the farm to the city.

See Food Shortage
The result, he said, has been a shortage of labor on the farm and unless a remedy is found there will be a shortage on food.

"It is a matter of national concern, therefore," he continued, "that we put the farm in condition to get labor. The only remedy I can see is to permit the farmer to make enough money so that he can pay enough to attract labor."

"The way to do this is to reduce the spread between the price the farmer gets for the wheat he has produced and the price paid by the consumer."

Approves Plan
"The way to bring this about is co-operative marketing. We have been experimenting for 50 years with it and we have just now learned the principles underlying it.

DETROIT'S FIRST MONEY CAR LINE—This picture shows the first money street car to run on Detroit's new city-owned car lines, which are expected to bring better and cheaper service. Six and a half miles of double track will start five-minute service Feb. 1. Inset, J. S. Goodwin, manager of the city lines, who operated the car on the first run.

"Down in California they have twenty highly successful co-operative marketing associations. Here as an example of the way they found associations down there. Speculators had nearly ruined the raisin industry. Fresno was suffering because of this from a heavy business slump. The bankers, merchants and raisin growers got together, called Aaron Sapir, the genius back of the movement, and the raisin growers organized their marketing association. Now both the city and raisin growers are prosperous."

Farmers Organize
"This man went out this fall and organized the wheat growers of Washington. He got the farmers to sign their crop for five years to a selling company, providing a penalty of 25 cents a bushel for not doing so, rounded or purchased enough warehouses to store the grain and the farmers are being saved 20 cents a bushel on their crop. He did this all by working through the present farmers organizations as the Grange.

"The United Grain Growers of Canada have called Mr. Sapir to re-organize their association, which has already been highly successful."

"The American Farm Bureau Federation is promoting this type of organization and is doing a splendid work."

BUREAU WILL SEEK MEMBERS IN BIG DRIVE

Farm Federation Preparing for Membership Campaign in February

The membership campaign of the Burleigh County Farm Bureau will open on February 7. The present series of meetings are merely to inform the people of the county as to the purposes of the bureau.

The organization committee of the bureau at a meeting January 6 voted to affiliate with the state bureau and to place the membership fee at $10. This will include dues for an individual and the entire family as well. This amount is divided, half going to the county and half to the state and national organization.

To Get Papers
Each member will receive the county and state papers.

A special campaign committee to conduct this drive has been appointed by the organization committee. The members of this committee are: J. M. Thompson, Still, chairman; Mrs. T. Ellison, Sterling, and John Schneider, Bismarck.

The members of the organization committee are: Harry G. Renfrow, Baldwin; Mrs. T. Ellison, Sterling; Mrs. C. F. Lambert, Arena; C. F. Lindsey, Hogan; W. D. Perkins, Wilton; Albert Erstrom, Baldwin; Roy Wildfang, McKenzie; Mrs. E. A. Trygg, Baldwin; and Mrs. E. A. Whitaker, Britton.

Hope of Farming
Usher L. Burdick, well-known live stock man of Williston, president of the state federation of the farm bureau, has issued the following statement.

"Agriculture in America during the past 50 years hasn't had a square deal. The calling has been regarded as mental and no information of an authentic nature in regard to the cost of production was presented to the public. The American Farm Bureau Federation, it seems to me, is the great hope of a fast declining agriculture. Through this agency production cost will be presented to all, and the farm will show a production cost below which farmers cannot sell."

A Great Calling
"Secondly, agriculture will come to its own and be recognized as a great calling—the greatest of all in America."

"Thirdly, it will stay that dangerous and deplorable condition now prevailing of the title of the soil passing from the tiller into the hands of those who do not till."

"Lastly, it will hold the boys and girls on the farm and build happy American homes."

Do You Want Propaganda or the News?

These are stirring times in North Dakota, the most important from a news standpoint than any since statehood.

Both sides of the great issues are being related daily in the columns of The Bismarck Daily Tribune, North Dakota's oldest newspaper.

What is the function of a newspaper anyway?

It is to print news and not views in its news columns.

Criticisms belong in the editorial columns, not in news articles or in headlines.

The Tribune is trying to keep views and opinions out of its news columns. News should not be doctored any more than milk sold as 100 per cent pure should be watered.

President-elect Harding, a successful newspaper publisher, sets forth the following rules for the publication of his paper:

WHAT A NEWSPAPER SHOULD DO AND BE

"Remember there are two sides to every question. Get both.

"Be truthful. Get the facts. Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy. I would rather have one story exactly right than a hundred half wrong. Be decent, be fair, be generous.

"Boost—don't knock. There's good in everybody. Bring out the good in everybody, and never, needlessly, hurt the feelings of anybody.

"In reporting a political gathering, give the facts, tell the story as it is, not as you would like to have it. Treat all parties alike. If there is any politics to be played we will play it in our editorial columns.

"Treat all religious matters reverently. If it can possibly be avoided, never bring ignominy to an innocent man or child in telling of the misdeeds or misfortune of a relative.

"Don't wait to be asked, but do it without asking, and, above all, be clean and never let a dirty word or suggestive story get into type. I want this paper so conducted that it can go into any home without destroying the innocence of any child."

These rules should govern every reputable newspaper.

News not views or propaganda is what the Tribune guarantees its readers.

MARY GARDEN
FIRST WOMAN TO RULE OPERA

She Gives Fervor, Hard Work and Supervision as Guides to Success

WOULD POPULARIZE ART

Public Deserves Very Best in Art for It Makes Opera Possible

Chicago, Jan. 26.—The first woman to have complete business and artistic charge of one of the big American grand opera houses companies in short to be the director of the enterprise. Mary Garden outlined today what she thought opera should mean throughout the United States. Miss Garden, known in Chicago and in numerous other American cities as "the Mary," was appointed to the joint role of a star, artistic director and business manager of the Chicago Opera association early this month.

Mary Garden's ambition is to make opera and herself as well loved by the people of the whole United States as she is by the people of Chicago.

Enthusiasm, fervor, hard work, constant supervision, strict economy and modern opera rather than the old are only a few things that Miss Garden promises to show the people of America what she has in her and is capable of producing.

"Music, real music," said Miss Garden, "is being borne on the high tide of popularity, through the marvelous phonograph, and piano, into the homes of almost every family in this country. I hope to take advantage of this and by hard work, bring opera up to that place that it deserves in the hearts of the people. Wouldn't it be wonderful, if by doing this I will have made them love opera and me as well as the people of Chicago have convinced me that they love me?"

Constant Supervision.

Constant supervision, insistence on having her every performance as perfect as it was possible to get it through both the supporting company and the equipment, is assigned by Miss Garden as probably the chief reason that the Board of Directors of the Chicago Opera company have seen fit to place her in the position that was held for years by Cleofonte Campanini.

"The public makes opera possible and I think that the public deserves the very best that can be assembled," said Miss Garden. "Some artists have said that 'Garden gets everything she wants.' No wonder she is a success. I have fought, argued, criticized and insisted on the best performance because I know the public wanted this as well as I. I believed I was right and I fought for my own ideas. As a rule I realized them."

Miss Garden is strongly of the opinion that the people of today want modern opera and as she was instrumental in introducing the modern grand opera, she said that naturally she intends to carry out her ideas with the Chicago Opera company along these lines.

"I shall produce both French and Italian operas," she said. "But at least one American opera during a season should be produced and I shall try for this. I do not believe in translations. They have proven a failure. You will remember that I made my premiere in Paris in the title role of 'Louise.' This was really one of the first of the modern operas to be produced. It was some few years later that I introduced 'L'Amour et le Pardon' in the production of the modern opera in New York. History tells you the result. We had several very smart persons and then it unfortunately failed, but the ideas were good and the critics were forced to the fact that the public wanted modern opera and we have brought it on to Chicago. Vouchers Absent

Included in the criticism of this department is $77,895.72 paid out as shown by checks issued for which there are no supporting vouchers. These payments were made on dates ranging from July 9, 1920 to the date of examination. The largest was $1,969 to the workmen's compensation bureau. The summary regarding the Home Builders association includes the following:

people of today want the music of today and the presentation of the old should never be attempted unless you have some whom you know are capable of singing the part. This too, may have had some effect on the Board of Directors in selecting me as the head of the opera.

Realizes the Task.

Miss Garden apparently realized the task she has undertaken for she says: "Work. I know it means work and I am a woman, but it has simply warmed my heart to find that I have the solid support of everyone. It seems that everyone is wishing me success. I realize the position is not easy, yet small obstacles that have apparently confronted others, I believe have been overcome merely by my appointment. It is silly to think that these operatic artists cannot be handled owing to their speaking several different languages. They are simply children and when one knows them and treats them humanely and not as the dirt under one's feet, any trouble along the line complained of will instantly disappear. They are loyal to the very core and this phase of the position gives me no worry whatever."

That Miss Garden is a business woman with far more than the usual business acumen credited to a star on the artistic horizon, was shown by her announcement that economy must be practiced. "We must be economical," she said, "and I know that it is possible to do so, for the good of all and this includes the public. For every dollar spent we must find a dollar returned in service or equipment."

"I do not at this time know how much the operatic artists of the Chicago company are being paid. Neither do I know how much properties cost. But I do know what they should cost. I have ideas of the relative pay that I think the artists should receive. I will give you an example: If Mme. Galli-Curci sings in an opera here, the house will be packed until every seat is filled, will it not? They have come to hear Mme. Galli-Curci. She is the drawing card and should be paid accordingly. Her support should be paid in proportion. Suppose you produced the same opera with the same cast, with the exception of Mme. Galli-Curci? Would it prove the same drawing card? Of course not."

Patience to All.

"This is only fairness to all and I shall work along this line."

"You know the appointment came to me in the most sudden manner. I was sitting at my piano, practicing when Mr. Harold E. McCormick entered and asked me to step down to the Board of Directors and wanted to see me. He asked 'What was I to do?' and he answered 'About the opera.' I went and question after question was fired at me. I answered them all and told my opinions. I was never selfish in keeping my ideas to myself when I saw that by giving them to others the art could be benefited. I then came back to my room and that time I had no idea of what was to follow. Shortly afterward Mr. McCormick came in and in a moderate tone said: 'The Board of Directors have unanimously elected you to fill Campanini's place. Do you accept?' I never hesitated. My answer was 'yes' and my ambition is to place opera foremost in the minds of America."

operations at Grand Forks and the general offices at Fargo.

Ledger Not Posted.

"The general ledger at Drake was not posted to date of close of audit, but only to November 13, 1920. We took off trial balance of the said general ledger as at November 13, 1920."

"The trial balance included storage accounts."

"We requested Mrs. Keller, the bookkeeper, to furnish us with the original reports from the consignees of these consignment sales and were informed by her that these records were either at the offices of the association in Fargo, or at the offices of the Industrial Commission at Bismarck, and that none of the transactions or correspondence in connection with the consignment sales were in the Drake office or in her possession at that time."

"We inquired of the secretary of the industrial commission at Bismarck for these records, and were advised that all of the records of the North Dakota mill and elevator association were either at the Drake mill or at the offices of the association at Fargo or the mill office at Grand Forks."

No Records Found.

"We inquired for these consignment records at the office of the association at Fargo. Mr. McGovern's secretary, Mrs. Dodd's, informed us that Mr. McGovern was absent from the city at the time and in regard to the consignment sales records, that no such records were at the Fargo office and that the records were made up by the consignees to the office at Drake or to the Industrial Commission's office at Bismarck."

"Mrs. Dodd also informed us that the bookkeeping records at the Fargo office had been turned over to the Equitable Audit Co. for audit the latter part of the preceding month, and to the best of her knowledge, were still in their possession."

Locked in Suit Case.

"We next inquired of Mr. Darling, the representative of the said Equitable Audit Co. then at Bismarck, if he knew where these records were obtainable, and were advised by him that part of them were in a suit case of his locked up at Fargo, and that the remainder were in his possession at Bismarck. The records were in a confused condition and he had been engaged in endeavoring to straighten them out when he was called away from Fargo. We asked if it would be possible to get an order from him for the records at Fargo, and were informed that nobody but himself could get at them."

Had No Authority.

"We next inquired of the manager of the Consumers United Stores company at Fargo, to whom we were referred by Mrs. Dodd. The reason for this call was that this company, by the records at the Drake mill, represented the greater portion of the consignments and it was considered probable that he might be able and willing to furnish us with desired information and clarification of the consignments to this company. He advised us that the records were not at the mill at Drake with every remittance as made. We asked if we might receive or make copies of such reports from his records, and he advised us that he had no authority to give us such information."

No Records at Fargo.

"We next inquired of Mr. Paulson, manager of the mill under construction at Grand Forks, if any records of consignment sales were at his office, and he informed us that there were none."

"It will be apparent that these reports of consignment sales are absolutely necessary for the production of correct statements of financial condition and earnings. The records at Drake, as produced and examined, reflected the receipts only in cash amounts. Such consignment sales reports would afford not only verification of such consignments and remittances, but would supply the following necessary information not otherwise available:

1. Quantity of flour sold by consignees
2. Resulting quantities of flour on hand by consignees as sold as at date of audit
3. Dates of sale and corresponding market prices
4. Amount of freight and other charges paid by consignees and surcharged the mill

Such information is necessary for the following analyses and verifications:

1. Acknowledgment by consignees of quantities of flour received, sold, and on hand at date of audit.
2. Comparison and authentication of sales prices reported with current market prices.
3. Computation and verification of actual profits or losses made by the mill covering the consigned sales.
4. The asset valuation on balance sheet of unsold consigned product.

On December 31, 1920, we were advised by the secretary of the industrial commission that 'a proper audit of the association requires a physical inventory of the mill products at Drake and all consignment points' and that 'no audit is worth the name unless based on physical inventories.'

Inventory of Product.

"Physical inventory of product at the Drake mill, unsold and unconsigned as at date of audit had been duly taken, as already mentioned in the within report."

"We wish to make clear and emphasize the fact that goods on consignment are not verified by physical inventories but by examination of the records, supported by the acknowledgment of the consignee."

Not only would it be clearly impossible to take the physical inventory of the mill products on consignment at certain date at many widely scattered stores of all possible consignees, but such a physical inventory would be valueless. Not only would it be impossible to identify the items and quantities represented in such consigned goods on hand, but there would be no means of determining whether such goods had not been sold and removed undelivered or the extent of goods in transit, if any."

In the within report we have confined ourselves to presenting only the transactions and information subject to verification by us and from the records available for examination."

Regret Incompleteness.

"We regret that we are unable to present a complete and comprehensive report of financial condition and operating results due to the deficiency in the records available."

can say for Mr. Sullivan and myself that it is our desire to make a fair and impartial investigation of the facts," said Mr. Murphy. "We have some suggestions as to the method of procedure. First, we would like to suggest that before commencing the formal proceedings, rules of procedure be drafted covering the entire ground pretty thoroughly so that in the proceedings you will not have to stop to discuss points as we go along. We are for the election of officers for the audit to prepare some rules of procedure to be followed."

"This attitude of Representative Graustad and appeared to be that of most independent who have seen the report or have been informed of it. There are some who say that an examination of the report and the tracing down of information given in the report will show conditions in the state industries that will be deplorable. Most of them prefer to withhold any expression, saying that an opinion without an investigation is worthless."

Call it 'failure'

On the other hand Nonpartisans, who are the great majority of the legislature, are indicating deplorable conditions. The official daily organ of the legislature, under a leading headline "Bank of North Dakota Gets Clean Bill of Health" says that the report disproves allegations made against the conduct of industries.

The accounting firm acknowledges cooperation and aid in the examination of the Bank of North Dakota by W. C. Cathro, director-general, L. B. McAnany, credits assistant director, and A. Johanson, audit department director, and in the survey of the Home Builders association of L. B. Hubbard, manager, and John H. Adams, bookkeeper, and says that it received no cooperation and was hindered in its examination of the Drake mill.

Conclusions on Bank

Conclusions expressed by the accounting firm regarding the law governing the Bank of North Dakota were declared by Nonpartisans to be without the province of an accounting firm. These read:

"We do believe it proper to strongly urge that all such enterprises, other than the Bank of North Dakota, should be financed through direct appropriations by the legislature in specific amounts and for designated purposes instead of through advances of the funds of the state bank."

"The Bank of North Dakota operates under a plan peculiarly analogous to the joint ones of a reserve bank."

"The bank must provide for a reasonable and sufficient mobility and liquidity of assets at all times."

"The prevalent condition of contraction is general and serious. At such time the bank should be in a position to extend considerable relief."

"It is necessary to direct your attention to the disbursement of the fund of assets of the bank which are represented in thirty year farm loans, state bonds, advances to state institutions and other nonfluid investments, to establish and emphasize the propriety and importance of the accompanying recommendations."

The report shows these listed as follows: thirty-year farm loans, $2,224,000; state bonds, $1,251,452; representing the capital of the bank, and advances to state institutions of $832,716.

Sudden Withdrawals

The comment also says that "on November 11, 1920, the bank found it advisable to draw on deposits of public funds in local banks to the amount of $1,390,000. It is apparent that this could only effect an increasing stringency and decreasing the ability of the local banks to assist the local merchants and farmer at the time of their greatest need."

There are many who believe that the law covering the organization of the Bank of North Dakota will come in for considerable discussion before the legislature is ended.

AMERICA'S DRY, NOT BONE DRY

Some Celebrate, Some Commemorate on Anniversary of National Drought

By E. M. THIERRY.
New York, Jan. 26.—National prohibition's first official birthday occurs Sunday. Some will celebrate it, others will commemorate it.

Prohibition, as a war-time measure, was a year old last June 30. The eighteenth amendment, however, went into effect Jan. 16, 1919.

The amendment's first birthday directs attention to some interesting situations. For instance:

Forty-eight million gallons of liquor in bonded warehouses, costing Uncle Sam $1,000,000 a year to guard.

Withdrawals on permits of 1,050,000 gallons a month, which will exhaust the bonded supply in four years.

Additional withdrawals of 4,000,000 gallons a month of non-bottled liquor, manufactured by 75 distilleries, paying government tax of $8,800,000 a month.

Much liquor being smuggled over Canadian and Mexican borders.

Much liquor being manufactured illicitly in this country.

Liquor on sale by the drink, quart and case in most cities.

Bill pending in Congress to investigate prohibition enforcement.

Charges of liquor pending in Congress to investigate prohibition enforcement.

Charges of liquor graft, bribery and corruption pending in many cities.

Ambiguous ruling by government departments resulting in legal and illegal manufacture of intoxicants.

Quest for stills.

Commissioner Williams of the Internal Revenue department, says during the year his agents destroyed 6,579 illicit distilleries, 7,806 illicit stills, 3,378 worms, 93,746 gallons spirits, 40,116 fermenters, 2,712,012 gallons fermented mash, 137,650 gallons wine and cider and seized, but did not destroy—122,865 gallons of spirits.

Yet paraphernalia for distilling whiskey—especially the important "worm"—are openly displayed for sale in many cities.

The commissioner's report shows 17,505 persons have been arrested in the United States for violation of the prohibition law, of whom 17,429—nearly 100 per cent—have been recommended for prosecution.

Total penalties and taxes under the Volstead act of $22,571,639.93 have been assessed against violators of the law.

Some Odd Angles.

Here are some serio-comic angles to prohibition's birthday:

Rulings permit a man who owns a grape arbor to make 200 gallons of wine a year—wine with a kick. But a woman who owns a box of raisins may not make even a fruit drink from them.

A farmer may make all the hard cider he can drink; but a city man may drink only sweet cider doctored to prevent fermentation.

A manufacturer may put a kick in mince meat, but a hotelkeeper or housewife is not permitted to do it.

More than 150 rulings and regulations have been issued by many conflicting by Attorney General Palmer, Prohibition Commissioner Kramer and Revenue Commissioner Williams.

"Prohibition is more destructive to life and morals than firearms," says Hudson Maxim, famous inventor.

"The eighteenth amendment is a school for crime."

"The time waste cannot be blamed on prohibition," says William J. Burns, famous detective.

"Prohibition has made America a better country in which to live," says General Booth of the Salvation Army.

Consumption Drop.

Commissioner Kramer says 65,000,000 gallons of liquor were consumed every six months before prohibition, and that it has now dropped to 15,000,000 gallons in six months.

However, this does not include the hooch smuggled into the country and manufactured here.

William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in New York, warns that "there is grave danger of a prohibition-nullification program being put over by politicians and liquor interests."

ANCIENT RELICS FOR CHICAGO "U"

Institution Gets Collection of Egyptian Curiosities.

HAS FINE ORIENTAL MUSEUM

After Adventure Trip, Dr. J. H. Breasted Returns With Wealth of Valuable Specimens—Gives University One of Finest Collections in Country—Rule of British in Mesopotamia Great Blessing, He Says.

Fresh from the Near East, 37 big boxes of relics of ancient Egypt and Babylonia have been unpacked at the University of Chicago. They were brought recently after an adventure-some trip by Dr. J. H. Breasted, professor of Oriental History and Egyptology.

In the judgment of museum officials here, they make the Oriental museum at the University of Chicago the finest of its kind in the United States.

The university professor and his staff of four were the first white men to cross the Arab state after it was proclaimed, going from Bagdad to Aleppo. At times the expedition traveled at great personal risk.

The aim of the party was to survey the most important buried cities of the Near East in regard to the work of excavation. Doctor Breasted said he saw ancient cities, now merely mounds of ruins, that were not on the map and were totally unknown to science.

Because of his knowledge of conditions in the country behind Syria, Doctor Breasted was asked by the British government at Cairo to go on a diplomatic mission to the British foreign office at London and at the expense of changing his plans for returning home, he did so, Doctor Breasted disclosed here.

Arabs Hostile to English.

The traditional friendship of the Arabs for the English has now turned to hatred, Doctor Breasted reported. This, he said, was due to the British giving over Syria to the French after they had promised the Arabs their own kingdom in recompense for the help they gave the British against the Turks.

British political agents were being murdered by Arabs in Mesopotamia while the University of Chicago expedition was in that country, Doctor Breasted said. He related that a British colonel who knew the Arabs intimately was later killed at the identical camping place the university party had stopped at a short time before.

"The English rule in Mesopotamia is, however, the greatest blessing that ever came to the country," Doctor Breasted said. "It is accomplishing wonders in quieting the turbulent Arabs and in bringing in civilized conditions. Anyone who knows the Near East cannot fail to rejoice at the British occupation, and most of all the archaeologist."

Bears Out Bible Story.

Notwithstanding this hostility to the British, the party determined to push on without protection across the deserts to the Mediterranean. They fortunately found the Arabs friendly to Americans.

One of the prizes brought back to the Chicago Oriental museum is an Assyrian prism chronicling the destruction of Sennacherib's army before Jerusalem. This great Assyrian king had carried a host against Jerusalem and sorely troubled Hezekiah, king of Judah. It is related in the book of Isaiah that Hezekiah sent for the prophet Isaiah, that Isaiah prophesied that Sennacherib would not enter Jerusalem, but would return to Assyria by the way that he came, and that the Assyrian army would suffer a great destruction.

"This is a six-sided prism containing the royal annals of Sennacherib," Doctor Breasted said. "It relates the chief campaigns of his western wars and chronicles this incident told of in Isaiah. There is a similar prism in the British museum, but ours is three years older and it is the first in the United States."

A flint knife blade with a sharp edge, which Doctor Breasted characterized as the finest piece of chipped stone known to man, is another of the prizes of the collection. Still another is a small blue vase from Egypt, where glass was first used, which the professor said showed the first artistic use made of glass.

A picture of early Egyptian home life is afforded by a group of 25 figures found in an Egyptian tomb. Servants making bread, washing, making music on a drum and doing other familiar things about the house 4,000 or 5,000 years ago, go to make up the most complete group of the kind, it is said, that has ever been uncovered in one tomb.

FORMER STATE AUDITOR FILES REPORT ON HOMEBUILDING WITH THE LEGISLATURE

Carl R. Kositzky, former state auditor, today handed to the house of representatives investigation committee the report he had prepared for the board of auditors, when he was a member of it. The board had asked Mr. Kositzky to inventory the Home Builders' association in Bismarck. His report, addressed to the board of auditors, follows:

December 28, 1920.

In compliance with your request of December 11, 1920, to take inventory of the building material of the State Home Builders' Association in Bismarck, which was purchased for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the Home Builders' Act, enacted during the 1919 session of the legislature, I attach a complete inventory and my report on the operation of this association as a result of the standpoint of several years' experience in the lumber business.

Mr. Blakemore, manager of the association, was very kind to furnish M. Chernich, his assistant, to assist me in taking inventory and you will note his approval as to the quantity of material, appears on the back of this report.

There is evidence on every hand that the work of the Home Builders' Association has been supervised by men who do not know the lumber business or who are woefully inefficient in attempting to do the work assigned them. The evidence of carelessness, inefficiency and waste are so apparent as to suggest the need of drastic overhauling of the department.

Lumber and other building materials in Bismarck was found piled in all shapes and manner. Much high priced pine finishing lumber is piled out in the open across the street from the Bank of North Dakota, while forty-two thousand shingles are housed in the old Washburn freight house across the street from the J. I. Case warehouse on lower Main street. A person without any experience in the lumber business ought to know that finishing lumber should have been piled inside and the shingles outside, because of the deterioration of the lumber in the open. Lumber was not piled in piles according to length and size, but all lengths and sizes can be found in one pile.

Sacks of Plaster.

One of the most striking evidences of inefficiency, carelessness or ignorance in the storing of plaster. Several thousand sacks of plaster are piled on the ground in the Wagner warehouse on Fifth street in Bismarck and Washburn warehouse across the street from the J. I. Case warehouse on lower Main street. The plaster should be immediately taken off the ground and better protected against loss.

Several hundred dollars worth of empty plaster and cement sacks are lying around loose in the two warehouses and houses now under construction.

Number of Cars.

Particular attention is called to the cars of lumber involved on the last page of my inventory. Because of insufficient time to trace the prices of these cars, I have not been able to determine the cost of the lumber involved. The Home Builders' Association have had virtually no system of accounting. Because of this it is difficult to get at the facts concerning the association, and in order to arrive at the cost of the building material it was necessary to obtain prices from one of the leading lumber concerns in Bismarck, who, in estimating the value of the stock, used July prices.

EAT ENOUGH A SAFE RULE

Have No Fear of Sour Stomach, Gassiness, or Distresses Due to Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

From the daily food the system must have a diversified supply of materials or parts of the digestive machinery will quit for lack of work.

Therefore, to cut down food or go on a starvation diet calls for a degree of selective knowledge that very few men possess. The best plan is to eat anything you like, and as much of a variety as possible. Follow meals with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and you supply the stomach with an alkaline effect which enables digestion to go on without gassiness, rumblings, water brash, biliousness, coated tongue, abnormal thirst and the feeling of drowsiness after eating. HIGH SET PSYCHE KNOT LATEST STYLE IN HAIR-DRESSING

The day of smoothly dressed, neatly netted hair, is past in Paris.

Waves and short curls about the face, and the high set Psyche knot made of finger puffs, as shown in the illustration, comprise the latest thing in hair-dressing, especially for evening wear. In many instances a large circular comb is thrust into the hair as a support of the Psyche knot, which is dressed so softly that without other security than ordinary hairpins it would be in danger of falling.

These "back" combs are of varying degrees of elaborateness and beauty. Many are set with diamonds or other precious stones, while the revival of the cameo is evidenced in its frequent use in their designing.

AN ORANGE-LEMON TREE.

The sensations of a tree which started out by being one fruit, became metamorphosed, in its upper parts, into another, and then in turn came back to the first, can be better imagined, as the saying goes, than described. This is a common tree experience in citrus districts of California. The explanation is that the lemon can be grafted onto the orange, and the orange onto the lemon.

This is not to say that an orange-lemon-orange tree bears better oranges than a straight orange. It doesn't. In fact, no difference in the fruit, one way or the other, is observed. The obstruction of lemon in the trunk resulted from faltering in the grower's plans. He started out to grow lemons. He used trees in which the lemon had been budded-in on, say, sour Florida stock. When these trees had attained some growth, some consideration, possibly market conditions, influenced him to wish his trees were not lemons, but oranges. So he budded them over.

Quite a little of this is being done now in California. Recently oranges have been more profitable than lemons.

Old hands in the citrus industry say that when the occasional hard freeze comes that "murder out." They say that the orange with some intervention of lemon is usually the harder hit.

SUCH WAS LIFE.

A collection of rare books is to be sold in New York Jan. 24 and 25, the library of Herman Edgar. Included among them is:

"The Mowing-Devil, or Strange News Out of Hartfordshire." Being a true relation of a farmer, who, bargaining with a poor mower about the cutting down three half acres of oats; upon the mower's asking too much, the farmer swore that the devil should cut it rather than he. And so it fell out that that very night the crop of oats shew'd as if it had been all of a flame, but next morning appeared so neatly mow'd by the devil or some infernal spirit that no mortal man was able to do the like. Also how the said oats lay now in the field, and the owner has not power to fetch them away." The book is a small quarto in old Russia binding, and was printed in London in 1678. The wood-cut on the title shows the devil mowing.

That, probably, was the only agricultural work ever done by the devil. Many people, now, profess to doubt that the devil did that much. They consider it one of the early fiction efforts of a modern Best Seller writer's ancestor.

But at the time, 1678, quite a few persons believed it. There were those, however, who thought they'd be able to haul the oats out of the field if once the mowing was done. These tempted the devil (according to Hartfordshire tradition) to do some mowing for them.

They staged similar disputes with the "poor mower" and, refusing his terms, said the devil should do the mowing rather than he.

The devil, being wiser, or lazier than he is generally credited with being, refused to fall for any more mowing jobs. He paid no attention to further controversies between the poor mower and other farmers.

HORSE POWER IN WATER POWER.

By developing our available water power in this country we can produce power at a rate of $15 a horse power. The power which runs the largest English mills today is produced at a cost of $34 a horse power. This is a very significant and important fact.

Another significant and important fact is that today coal can be mined in the United States and laid down in English ports cheaper than it can be taken from the mines in England.

These were among the statements made recently by General Hugh Cooper to a committee of the House investigating water power development.

General Cooper speaks as one having authority. He is the man who developed the Niagara Falls power. Also the power at Keokuk, Iowa. He has built numerous dams on the Mississippi and has been engaged on the Muscle Shoals work in Alabama.

During the war General Cooper served as a dollar-a-year man, contributing his services to the government. He took pains to tell the committee that he has all the money he wants or needs, and that he is not a stockholder in any power corporation.

The development of water power in the United States General Cooper regards as the most important thing which can be done. Before the war the general says the subject of developing water power was regarded as something of a gamble. There were engineering problems which at that time were not completely solved. Since then these engineering problems have been solved, and TODAY THE MATTER OF DEVELOPING POWER FROM FALLING WATER IS A MATTER OF ABSOLUTE ENGINEERING CERTAINTY and mathematical precision.

There were strong intimations in what General Cooper said that there are British influences at work in the United States against the development at government expense of $15-horse power, and it was in this connection that he cited the comparative cost of British power.

WORDING YOUR THOUGHTS

Persons unaccustomed to writing are often called upon to address a paper or letter to some organization or to the public, and many feel at a loss how to go about it.

No better advice can be given than William Cobbett, nearly a century ago, gave his nephew. Cobbett, son and grandson of farmers, became a member of the British parliament. The writing was a secondary accomplishment, his newspaper correspondence has become a prose classic unique in English.

"The order of the matter will be, in almost all cases, that of your thought," advised Cobbett. "Sit down to write what you have thought, and not to think what you shall write. Use the first words that occur to you, and never attempt to alter a thought, for that which has come of itself into your mind is likely to pass into that of another more readily and with more effect than anything which you can, by reflection, invent."

Can you remember when charades were considered a lively evening's entertainment?

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

COURAGE NEEDED TO RUN A BUSINESS

The country is beginning to realize that the man who goes into business for himself is taking a real risk.

In the last few years, with prices constantly mounting, very many theoretically inclined persons came to look on the business man as simply a machine for making profits automatically. He was fair game for any experiment in taxation that might occur. Wasn't he getting rich? It didn't take brains to conduct a business, these theorists assumed. All that was necessary was to get busy and the profits would flow in.

The farmer was regarded as one of this favored class. He was a business man. Consequently he was growing violently wealthy.

Now a change has come. The business man, stocked up with high priced goods, is taking his loss—not his profits. The farmer has seen the bottom drop out of the market for wheat, corn, and livestock, all raised under expensive conditions. Today the farmer is selling his cattle at less than he could have sold for two months ago, and he has had the expense of feeding and caring for them all this time.

The American business man, farmer, merchant, manufacturer, is resourceful and competent. He will squeeze by some way. Meanwhile he is demonstrating to the people, theorists and all, that it takes a man of courage, as well as of intelligence and industry, to run a business successfully.—Kansas City Star.

AIDING AND ABETTING GRAFT

It appears that Secretary Baker thought it advisable to stick the government something like $6 a ton for coal rather than exercise the right to commandeer at cost the fuel necessary for heating purposes at the military barracks. In pursuance of this policy he bought 765,252 tons of bituminous coal on which, according to Senator Calder, the seller profited more than $6 a ton. The Navy department commandeered coal, but Secretary Baker rejected advice to pursue the same course and, panicky over the possibility of a fuel shortage, went into the spot market and laded something like four-and-a-half millions of public money into the pockets of the profiteers.

The senate committee investigating coal profiteering has unearthed this bunch of the facts. Colonel Barney, purchasing agent for the War department, admitted the transaction, but professed naive ignorance of where the profit went and had no means of investigating. It might be interesting to get at the inside of the National Coal association, whose president, D. B. Wentz, admits he took a commission of $75,000 on a fraction of the purchase. Colonel Barney testified that the system cost the government "thousands and thousands of dollars," but regarded the situation apparently as ordinary and commonplace.

There is a hope of getting away from this kind of administration soon after March 4, but the Augean condition of the departments calls for an administrative Hercules to clean it up.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

LOOKING FOR THE NEW "OKEH"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Oliver Roberts Barton.

THE TWINS FIND THE SHOES.

Nancy and Nick gave a shriek of delight when they saw the corner of their precious box sticking out from under the cookie-shell.

THE TWINS FIND THE SHOES.

"Good gracious!" said Nancy. "I thought that cucumbers gave other folks indigestion. Do they really get it themselves?"

Nick and Nancy were amazed to find that this time it was a sea-cucumber who was addressing them.

Nancy pulled it out and opened the lid. Everything is here, Nick! she exclaimed joyously. "If we just had our Magic Green Shoes that the wicked old Bobadil Jinn stole, we could wish ourselves up to the top of the ocean again and be off."

"Green shoes?" said a new voice beside them. "What did they look like?" Nick and Nancy were amazed to find that this time it was a sea-cucumber who was addressing them. The creature looked exactly like any cucumber that might grow in your grandmother's garden, only the children learned that it was a really, truly fish and a particular friend of their friend the lobster.

When the sea-cucumber heard about the shoes, he rolled over several times with a groan. "That's just what it was that I ate!" he cried. "And I thought they were scallops. Now I've

"My, yes!" groaned the cucumber. "Very bad. Little boy, have you a knife?" Nickie hadn't. "Then I'll have to sharpen a claw," said the creature. "I must cut off my stomach."

"Your stomach!" screamed the children. The crab and the lobster laughed. "Don't worry," they assured them. "Our friend here does that about every other week when his appetite gets ahead of him. It's much better than taking pills, and he does it neatly. He'll soon grow a new one." Sure enough. The sea-cucumber blew his stomach right out of his mouth and cut it off with a claw. "There! That's better," he signed with relief. "Children cut it open and get your Magic Shoes."

YOUR INCOME TAX

When, How, What to Pay

BY GRAHAM B. NICHOL

U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue. Thousands of persons whose income by reason of the exemptions were non-taxable made the mistake last year of failing to file an income tax return although one was due. For this they were assessed a nominal fine of from $5 to $10.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue this year is emphasizing the fact that the requirements to file an income tax return are based solely on a person's marital status and amount of his or her net income for the year 1920. Single persons with net incomes of $1000 or more, and married persons with net incomes of $2000 or more, must file a return regardless of whether their incomes are non-taxable.

After determining the amount of his exemptions the taxpayer in order to make the correct return must ascertain carefully his gross and net income for the year.

Net income is gross income less certain specified deductions which include expenditures incurred in the conduct of a business, trade or profession and other deductions such as personal taxes, losses, contributions, interest and bad debts.

Forms 1040 for reporting individual returns of income in excess of $500 are now available at offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices.

Forms 1040A for reporting individual returns or incomes of $5000, and less, is expected, will be ready for distribution within a few days.

With added responsibilities her health should never be neglected, and when beset with ailments peculiar to her sex she owes it to herself to first give

P. J. Jacobson and the Minn. St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway Co., corporation, Defendant and Respondent.

Garnishes Appeal from an order of the County Court of Ransom County; P. S. Thomas, Judge.

(Syllabus)
(1) Plaintiff recovered judgment against respondent and caused to be issued execution thereon in aid of the execution, it caused garnishes to be served upon the Minn. St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway Co., which was indebted to the defendant in the sum of $375.00, as disclosed by its affidavit. For this amount defendant interposed a claim for exemptions, and, also, interposed an answer to the same effect, in the garnishment proceedings, in the de-

MRS. IDA HAMBURG, of Brattleboro, Vt., says she never dreamed there was anything on earth that would do what Tanlac has done for her. Gains twenty-seven pounds.

"I think it is perfectly marvelous the way Tanlac has built me up. Before I began taking it I was in wretched health and only weighed 117 pounds. I now weigh 144 pounds and my health is splendid."

"I never dreamed that there was a medicine on earth that would cause me to regain my former weight and health in so short a time, but Tanlac did it and I simply can not tell you how grateful I am to this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered for two years from indigestion and dyspepsia and was in a very badly run-down condition. I had a tired, worn-out feeling nearly all of the time and rarely had any appetite."

"At times I would have indigestion so badly that I could hardly breathe. I also suffered from palpitation of the heart, severe headaches and pains in my back, but thanks to Tanlac, all of these terrible symptoms have left me and I now feel as well as I ever felt in my life."

"Another thing: I sleep just splendidly at night now and never suffer from nervousness like I used to. Tanlac is certainly a wonderful medicine and I am only too delighted to recommend it to my friends." The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Ida Hamburg, of 316 S. Main street, Brattleboro, Vermont.

fense of the garnishes.

The court made its order, allowing defendant his exemptions, and ordered the garnishes to pay the above sum of money to the defendant. No stay of order was procured, and the garnishes paid the money to defendant, and subsequently, plaintiff appealed from the order.

Held, for reasons stated in the opinion, that the question of whether or not the garnishes was lawfully authorized to pay the money to the defendant has become moot.

(2) Upon appeal from the order, no notice thereof was served upon the garnishes. Held, that, in effect, this was a dismissal of the garnishment proceedings against it, and the appeal is dismissed.

Opinion of the court by Grace, J. Appeal dismissed.

"OF SUCH IS THE KINGDOM"

BY BERTON BRALEY

Four thousand miles over the sea. The voices of mothers are crying. A summons to you and to me:

"Our children—our children are dying!"

"We tell you of food there is none. With famine our countries are stricken."

But what have our little ones done. That thus they should hunger and sicken?

"Oh, you in a bounteous land. Oh, you, gentle fathers and mothers. We plead that you may understand. The pitiful need of these others."

"Our babies who moan in their pain. Our pale little toddlers—no cheerish. We plead, may it not be in vain. Give—give to them, give or they perish."

"They are not to blame for their need. Their woe, or their land's desolation."

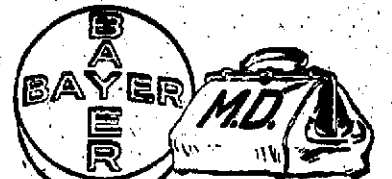

"Oh, great-hearted people, give heed. Save, save them from bitter starvation!"

"Oh, give to our little ones, bread. Made richer with love's precious, heaven."

Remember the Savior, who said: "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

LIGHT ON ANCIENT HISTORY

Some Interesting Data Bearing on the Strange People Known to Fame as the "Aeolians"

Evidently some one who had eaten a great deal of army canned beef in Europe wrote this amusing sketch in the "Watch on the Rhine," remarks the "Youth's Companion." The piece is headed, "Documents Published in the Year 2473 A. D., by an American Historian":

"I have just been journeying along the Rhine gathering data on the ancient tribe of men known as the Aeolians. The origin of this strange people is one of the great mysteries of history. Likewise their sudden extinction has been just as baffling."

"The Aeolians appeared in western Europe very suddenly about the time of the beginning of the Tertiary dark ages—the latter part of the second decade of the Twentieth century. For a short period they flooded in great numbers the entire territory of Gaul from the Pyrenees to the Rhine. Then they suddenly vanished."

It was recently thought that a clue had been found to the kind of food eaten by these nomads. In an old cellar in Anderlecht there were found what at first looked like peculiarly shaped bricks, but what later proved to be cans of a strange sort of meat. (Certain investigators soon decided that this could be nothing other than elephant meat, and students were about to make trips to Africa in search of further evidence, when the result of some chemical tests was published. This showed that the meat was at least 1007 years old, if not very much older; and as the Aeolians were in Gaul about 550 years ago, it is fully to be believed that this store of food belonged to them. It is much more probable that it was left there at the time Hannibal and his soldiers and elephant supply trains made their long expedition against Rome."

It is probably a good thing for America that the mysterious disappearance of the Aeolians came about, for there is plenty of evidence that this barbaric race was planning to migrate to North America and establish itself on that continent permanently.

THIS A "WOMAN'S COUNTRY"

English Writer Gives an Interesting Impression of Her Sister Over the Sea.

As an English woman who went about America for nearly three years, making friends, East, West, South and North, I ought to be able to contrast the women of the two countries, but the more one travels the more one realizes that "folks is just folks" all the world over.

American women are quicker at the uptake, as regards friendliness and kindness; but the tongue-tied English do just as much in the long run. The American's manners are more cosmopolitan, her clothes are better put on, she has more good stories in her after-dinner speeches. But if you compare corresponding types—as most travelers, omit to do—they are "both the same color under their skin."

America is a woman's country. The boy belongs to his mother, and most women give their own opinions on all subjects—quite curiously well expressed—without any suggestion of having gone to a man for help.

The Englishwoman speaks more shortly and with a suggestion of having "asked her husband at home"; but I doubt if the Englishwoman is worse off, since England is the home of the proverb, "As the good man saith, so say ye"; but as the good wife saith so must it be."

One very noticeable charm in the American woman is her quickness in starting conversation with a stranger and her aptness in saying something pleasant at once. I cannot help thinking that if English nurseries and school rooms taught this, it would have widely international results and put more reality into the League of Nations.—Lucy H. M. Soulsby in the Women's Supplement of the London Times.

VAST EMPIRE IN SOUTH SEAS

Extent of Australasian Group Under British Rule Is Hardly Realized by Americans.

Judson C. Welliver writes in the Country Magazine that our impressions about the Australasian empire of the future are rather vague, because we are unable to realize its mere bigness. Thus the island of New Guinea, the greatest island in the world, if we classify Australia as a continent, was, before the war, divided between the British, Dutch and Germans. The British have now taken over, in the name of Australia, the German claims.

We think of New Guinea as a considerable patch of dry land in the expanse of the southern ocean, but have difficulty realizing that if it could be laid down on the United States, one end would be at Portland, Me., the other near Omaha, and that it would blot out an area about twice the size of the German empire, and including something like a quarter of the population of these United States. It contains vastly greater resources than Germany, also about a thousand white people and 500,000 aborigines, largely cannibals. Half of it is yet unexplored, but its predestination to be essentially British is quite obvious.

Australasia aims at leadership in the south temperate zone, on lines curiously parallel to those by which Great Britain has become leader in the North. With inexhaustible coal and iron, she is creating iron and steel and shipbuilding industries and a navy of her own. The war era has been marked by the completion of Australia's first transcontinental railroad, suggestive reminder of the beginning of our own Union Pacific.

Many persons believe that Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, is the highest mountain in the eastern part of the United States. Mount Washington stands 6,293 feet above sea level, according to the United States geological survey, at a point of the interior, but many peaks in the southern Appalachians are over a hundred feet higher than New Hampshire's famous mountain. The highest mountain in the Appalachian system—the highest point in the United States east of the Rockies—is Mount Mitchell, in North Carolina, which stands at an elevation of 6,711 feet. The highest mountain in Tennessee, Mount Guyot, stands 6,086 feet above sea level.

Ivory Does Not Rust

One cold afternoon several school-girls were standing on a corner waiting for a car. A man invited them to come into his office to wait for the car. They accepted. The conversation soon turned to the color of a certain girl's hair. One insisted it was red, another that it was Auburn, and another that it was brown.

At the height of the discussion two children entered the office. As soon as they understood the nature of the argument, one of the youngsters exclaimed: "Oh, shucks! Her hair ain't red. Ivory don't rust."—Indianapolis News.

M'GOWAN HEADS FOR NORWAY ICE

Experts Pick St. Paul Flier to Outskate Mathieson

(N. E. A. Staff Special)

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—"Yep, I'm on my way to Norway."

Everett McGowan, 19, and world champion amateur ice skater, talks in gasses after a race.

"His cheeks are puffed with the warmth of exercise plus the excitement of winning."

McGowan has won the elimination contest from Norval Dapile, North Dakota skate crack. He's enthused.

"I'm sure I'm going right up the line," he says.

"I've got no fear of Bobby McLean. Just a Warmup."

Beating Dapile is just a warmup for the St. Paul ice men, so he thinks. McGowan has been an athlete ever since he was able to "ath."

From kid sports he took a prominent place on the Hamilton University track team. Later he was a football and basketball luminary at his home-as' College, St. Paul.

A year he tried hockey. He became a brilliant player. That he put on "ice wings" and went after world skating records.

By winning the international skating meet at Lake Placid, N. Y., last winter McGowan copped the world amateur title.

His recent win over Dapile at St. Paul puts him well on his way to world pro honors.

The races were part of a series of elimination meets being held to clear the way for a race with Bobby McLean.

"Wines" Full Grown.

Bobby lost to Mathieson of Norway, world champion, last winter on the Norway ice.

If McGowan beats McLean he'll go to Norway to meet Mathieson.

Ice skating experts who have seen both Mathieson and McGowan can over the ice, pick the St. Paul boy to be the next world pro champion.

McGowan's "ice wings" are full grown and he's confident.

Yea! Pickle is Fate! Esperanto and Man o' War Frinstance!

Boston.—Esperanto—queen racing schooner of the seas—is for sale cheap.

Man o' War—king of all horses of the turf—can't be bought for all the world's gold.

The Esperanto won glory by defeating the Lusenberg schooner—Delaware. The Gov.-on-Paw Vessels Co. will junk the speeder to build a faster one to race this year.

The explanation of the difference in values is simple. The Esperanto is a thing. Man o' War is like—and his speed will live forever through his sons.

DIXIE SHIFT OPEN TO CHIC

CHIC HARLEY

Chic Harley may add the Dixie shift to his famous "Harley shift."

He has been offered the job of head football coach by the University of Tennessee.

Last fall Chic was assistant coach at Ohio State, the school where he won his All-America honors as half-back.

The "Harley shift" is now a byword in football. It's Chic's own copyright.

He taught it to Pete Stinchcomb last year. It was a winner for Ohio. Tennessee wants Chic to give them a whole team of Stinchcombs next year.

He graduated from the Buckeye school in 1919.

Chic was one of the game's greatest as a player.

He ought to make the same kind of a coach.
